Ralph Dean, our pastor, entered college last fall at Alma at the age of 18 years, and a little later took charge of the Elwell church, conducting services. He took this means of putting himself through college. From the time Mr. Dean commenced work here with us, there has been a renewed interest in the work, as well as an increased attendance. Mr. Dean is rapidly ascending the ladder of life by the sheer force of character that knows no defeat. However, the one thing that is needed most is the help and support of the church financially. It is a most unfortunate state of affairs that the minister's salary has not been kept up, considering that there is only one church to be supported. Gratiot county is one of the most prosperous counties in the state, and the people, whether they are members or not, should be willing to help God's institution. There is enough money paid annually to the lodges of the village to pay two or three ministers' salaries. Let the church be first.
